

A Thank You Poem – by Paul Collins

The Exactitude of a Moment of Gratitude

This belated salutation, is due to my procrastination, in writing to and thanking you, for your most generous donation(s).

We shall presume, that you've subsumed, to take a stance to help finance, this Virtual Dance Room.

Your contribution, to this institution, whether you prefer dances Thracian or Croatian, will result in a positive conclusion.

Such innovation with much collaboration, that does enhance our circumstance, of joining together in various dance configurations.

We shall presume, you're well attuned, to add improvement to our movement, of dancing within the environment of zoom.
